

Software Engineering

My Software Engineering module focused on the development of a GPS device (that ran on a laptop) following Agile development principles. The product was developed over three two-week sprints, at the end of which a showcase was produced for the client. The following link is to the third and final showcase of the completed product.

<https://youtu.be/aHQyqt-Qk0>